W-W-W-Wow, thanks to my hot-shot agent, I'm Mad's "Head of the Year"! I fired him for that, the twit! Okay, so what do you want to know about me? I'm handsome and a S-T-A-R and, being electronic, my hot flashes only last about a milli-second.

What am I su-su-supposed to do now? Oh, introduce the sterling, way-out, hysterically funny articles in this issue! Well, there are none!

But there is a movie sa-sa-satire about four dismal young kids in the middle west and their search for identity...and for a plot. You can read it and search for the jokes!

Let's get back to s-something interesting and talk about how I came into being. I was generated by a computer that went haywire. Yes, I'm a son of a glitch!

Then there's SPORTS VIDEOS THAT NEVER MADE IT...and this article will never make it either, because neither me or MA-MA-MA-MADONNA is featured in any of the vid-vid-videos!

And then we have TV SPINOFFS YET TO COME...And the cl-cl-downs at MAD once again miss a GOLDEN opportunity to ca-ca-capitalize on my world wide fame. Imagine the spin-offs from my Cinemax show...MAKE HEADROOM FOR DADDY...HEADROOM OF THE CLASS...the endless are possibilities...and vi-vi-vice versa...

Well that's my p-p-p-part in this issue, trying to save it. If I was able to bring a smile to your lips, able to bring a ray of su-su-sunshine into your pitiful existence, hey, then that's why G-G-God put me on a computer screen. Ciao, adios, 'bye...and play golf!

"GUNK" MAIL

The ending of your "Top Gunk" satire was a real bomb!

Alan Thornburg
Midwest City, OK

As an Army Reserve Officer having to live next door to the highly overrated "Top Gunk" pilots, I found your satire to be a refreshing and realistic glimpse of the silly truth. Those egotistical, grand-standing pilot-clones and their over-sexed, bimbo cheerleader-groupies should be sentenced to a lifetime of watching "Officer and a Gentleman," "Top Gun" and other bonehead Navy recruiting films. Then again, they'd probably enjoy that!

Richard J. Vartuone
San Diego, CA

I liked how you shot down "Top Gun," but artist Mort Drucker should be shot down too! There are no F-4s in the Navy as he drew on page six. The F-4s belong to the Air Force!

MAVERICK

You mean that sleazeball publication?

GOOSE

Yeah, the same magazine the screenwriter who created us has been reading for years. They got us, Maverick—dead to rights and it was a professional job.

MAVERICK

I'm not going to just sit around and take it, Goose. I'm going gunning!

GOOSE

No! Not again, Maverick!

MAVERICK

Sorry, Goose, I've got them in my sights. Look at the Top Gunk cover—at one o'clock. See the TOP GUN logo in full color? It's just high enough so if there's another magazine in front of it on the newsstand, all that will show is the logo for TOP GUN.

GOOSE

You mean after slashing TOP GUN to pieces, they're using the logo of the year's most successful movie to help sell their magazine?

MAVERICK

That's right, Goose. I've got tone. Radar lock. Missile off.

GOOSE

Direct hit! One for the good guys. Crashed and burned, MAD...

LOCO-EMOTION PICTURE DEPT. (A YEAR TO DISMEMBER)

I was 12 going on 13, that age when a kid spends hours contemplating how many Oreos placed end-to-end would fit between his backyard and the moon, and has sexual fantasies about Twinkies! Even though I'm more than three times that age now, I still think like a 13-year-old! You'll see what I mean as you read this sophomoric drivel I'm writing-pretentious and strawberry jam-packed with symbols that no one will under-

Let me introduce you to the gang...

REDDY was screwed up because his father believed in "putting your shoulder to the grindstone," but not having one, he put Reddy's ear to the stove instead!

CRISIS had wisdom far beyond his ears, er, years! Not only did he listen to our problems, he charged us five Milky Ways an hour for his advice!

That's me, WORDY! I felt like the "invisible boy" because my parents acted like I wasn't there! My mom used to make my bed in the morning with me still in it!

My gosh, the train is coming and we're trapped on this trestle!

That's not a train, Reddy, that's just a symbol of adulthood bearing down on us!

The wheels represent progress and steam symbolizes childhood dissolving into the air!

STAND BUT ME

ARTIST: MORT DRUCKER

WRITER: DICK DEBARTOLO

WORM was a fat kid! How fat was he? He was so fat he didn't sit on the front porch—he was the front porch! He was so fat the state required him to register his rear end as an "off road vehicle"! He was so fat...hmmm...I wonder if I should give up this stupid story and write for Johnny Carson instead!

Well, we still better run like hell—this is the same symbol that rearranged every borie in Ray Brownout's body when it hit him in the caboose last week!

MORT DRUCKER

We took a short cut through Crazy Pete's junkyard, but we were very nervous because it was guarded by a vicious dog, Snoopy...

There was a gang of punks in town lead by a guy called Ace Comb! They were a tough group. How tough were they? Well, one day they put tattoos on each other's arms...

I said they were tough, not smart! But they were more than just punks, they were symbols of what Reddy, Worm, Crisis, and I would become if we stayed on our present courses in that small, dumb town! How dumb was it? Well, in other towns they played baseball in parks! In our town we played on highways!

That night we sat around the campfire talking about all those silly things that seem important to young boys before they discover girls...

What do you think the ramifications of a world oil glut will mean to the international economy?

If military spending doubles every nine years, the current tax structure won't be able to cope with the system!

If they could condense electrons into a single-ray focus, they'd have a laser beam capable of performing delicate microscopic surgery!

If hamburgers sold at the rate they're selling now, some smart businessman could start a chain that'd sell billions by 1986!

That's so dumb! Worm, you're a lost cause!

Tell us a story, Wordy!

Okay, I'll tell you a story about barfling, barfling, and revenge!

Oh, boy! I really love gross stories!

Yeah, but what's so gross about "revenge"?

The barfling is just a symbol to show that those in power who inflict suffering on others will someday get theirs!

Oh, you mean like the punks in this town?

No, more like Vice President Nixon, Senator Joseph McCarthy, and worst of all—Dick Clark!

The next morning we continued our search. On the way we came to a swamp we had to cross...

Relax, guys! The swamp merely symbolizes deep, dark mysteries of life!

Oh, yeah? What about these gross leeches?

They represent the dirty blood-suckers who make up prices at the movie popcorn stand!

Ace and the older punks headed out to find the body, too! Bored with "highway baseball," they decided to play "chicken..."

That upcoming truck driver isn't going to stop! He must be the same guy who drives the train—he doesn't stop for anyone either!

It's this town! It's so darn boring, no one wants to stop here for any reason!

But our gang beat the punk gang to the place where Ray Brownout got hit by the train...

Look! There he is!

And there he is... and there he is...

His scattered body is symbolic! It represents the end of our fragmented youth!

It also represents the end of the fresh, clean smell of the woods! Nothing like a decaying body to clean out your sinuses! Yucchh!

So, you little creeps got to the body first! You think you're gonna bring it back to town and get your pictures in the paper! No way! If anyone's gonna be local heroes, it's us!

You don't understand Ace! This isn't a body, it's a symbol!

Yeah? Well, this ain't a knife I'm holding, either! It's just a symbol representing the way I separate a nerd's nose from his face!

Tough noogies, Ace! My symbol of this gun I'm holding beats the hell out of your symbol of a knife when it comes to who's boss here!

Okay, Wordy, you win this round! But someday in the future, when they make a sequel to this lousy film, you won't be carrying that symbol! Then it'll be your body they'll be searching for!

So that ended the story. It wasn't much of an ending, but then it wasn't much of a story, either! As for what became of the guys, it was pretty predictable. Everyone ended up as successful as might be expected...

As for me, I didn't have the talent to make it as a real writer as I always dreamed, so I went to Hollywood to write movies instead.

Reddy, enamored with the military like his father, sold the Pentagon things like a carload of hammers at $40,000 each and retired a millionaire at age 23...

Crisis kept spouting his nutty philosophies about symbols and started his own religion. He preaches on TV every week and people send him millions...

Worm did very well at an amusement park as one of the star attractions...

Ace Comb entered a life of crime as we all knew he would—he became Mayor of the town...

Now, as I look at what I've done on the computer screen, I realize this script is as boring as the one-dimensional characters I hung around with as a kid! But that's one dimension more than the Hollywood characters I hang around with now, so I'll end this tale two ways...

In the movie version I'll look at the screen, read the drivel I wrote, then turn off the computer to go out with my kids—which, as some of you sharp computer people notice, will erase everything I've done! Very symbolic!

But in real life I'll press the "save" key, make a print-out of this script, and sell it tomorrow! I predict that it's bad enough to be a hit movie! And since Mad Magazine does satires on bad hit movies, that's probably where you'll be reading this...

Art historians have discovered many interesting details while examining the under-painting of famous canvases, but Mad, as usual, has gone deeper! We always sink to the lowest possible depths in art and literature, as we shall prove with the following presentation of our discoveries of...

HIDDEN DETAILS IN ART

The painting commonly referred to as "Whistler's Mother" may very well be the work mentioned in the artist's diary, "Mom on the Sauce" that many historians consider "lost." We submit our findings as anywhere from 80 to 100% proof!

When you poke around a round of poker you're liable to find some "slight of hand" at work! It may be no big deal, but we thought we'd give you the inside straight dope on "Cool Hand" Cezanne and let the chips fall where they may!

What gives the "Syndics of the Cloth Guild" those beady eyes? Did Rembrandt capture the expressions of these men of the cloth game observing some women of the cloth-less game, or is the naked truth that they were disturbed at how ■ new top-less fashion trend would cleavage their income in two!

This is ■ prime example of conservative art. Liberal art historians, however, have found a "zing around the collar" in this famous depiction of a farmer who has just been asked to "fork" over women's rights and mend the ERA of his ways!

Da Vinci was an artist and an inventor. Is it possible that he was more ahead of his time than we thought, and created something that made Mona a "head" of her time?

"Just what exactly are those people doing?" has been the question most asked about this famous masterpiece. Most experts have answered, "Who knows?" A few experts have answered, "Who cares!" The true answer may lie in the oft-quoted phrase, "One pitcher is worth a thousand words!"

DRAMA ON PAGE 12

ARTIST & WRITER: JOHN CALDWELL

DICK DePT.

There's been Live-Aid, Band-Aid, Hands Across America and other events which have raised millions of dollars for worthwhile causes. But what about those other fund raisers which go neglected and get completely forgotten, huh? Yeah, what about those! Well, Mad doesn't forget! Not us! Hoo hah! We herewith present...

FUND RAISERS that never made it!

ARTISTS: WILL ELDER & HARVEY KURTZMAN

WRITER: DICK DEBARTOLO

LEMON-AID was to be a line of defective American-made cars stretching from the east and west coasts and meeting in Detroit. Driven by frustrated owners who received no satisfaction from indifferent auto dealers and manufacturers, LEMON-AID never had a chance—only seven cars were able to make it to their positions on the line!

BAND-AID II

was the rock world's feeble attempt to raise money for the enormous task of trying to keep track of rock bands and performers who disappear, reappear, skip from group to group, change names, change hair, etc. The problem, of course, was that those chosen to appear could not be located and few pledges were called in during the 3-hour screening of a bare stage!

HAMS ACROSS AMERICA was intended as the "life of the party" answer to the successful COMIC RELIEF event staged by professional comedians. The frustrated would-be funny folks, decked out in lampshades and BRAND-AID was planned to relieve the nation of the current "Damn, I wish I'd bought the other one" disease now reaching epidemic proportions. GE owners with second thoughts about a recent refrigerator purchase, for instance, could swap theirs with a Westinghouse buyer suffering from the same ailment. The event ended in a shambles when 7000 Sony Betamax VCR owners showed up hoping to swap for VHS equipment and found no takers!

NO-HANDS ACROSS AMERICA

was not in "good hands" with Allstate or any other insurance company, for that matter! This event was organized to put together all those people whose insurance premiums have doubled and tripled along with those who can't get insurance at all and to raise enough money for one huge policy covering everybody! This wonderful idea fell apart when it was learned that in order to be legal, the event itself had to be insured, and of course, no insurance company would cover it!

equipped with whoopie cushions and seltzer bottles might have had a good thing going, but their inflated egos got in the way, and some types of ham can never be cured. Upstaging each other at every chance, the event ended in a humorless riot that collected neither laughs nor bucks for the noble cause!

A BAD CASE OF THE RE-RUNS DEPT.

The problem: Not enough good, current TV hits for MAD to parody!

The Solution: Go back and make fun of old TV shows that are still being played to death!

Another problem: Not enough copy to fill this boring introduction.

The solution: This extra line which doesn't say anything.

NOW there's enough copy, so here's our version of...

"I Love Luny"

I'm glad you guys stopped by! Sickie is at the club auditioning male singers for his new nightclub act.

What are you waiting for? Put on a fake moustache and dress up like a man and we'll go down to the audition and fool Sickie!

Nah, Sickie won't fall for that old routine!

I don't see why not! He's fallen for it 2,000 times before!

Luny, I can't understand why you're not going to louse-up Sickie's audition with one of your hilarious male impersonations!

I'm staying home and making one of my hilarious meals instead—chili!

Chili's not hilarious!

It is when you make it with Mexican jumping beans! ■ you want to try some, get ■ ladder and scrape a little off the ceiling!

ARTIST: ANGELO TORRES

How did the audition go, Sickie?

Okay, but there was one singer that was so bad, I thought it was Luny in disguise!

How did you know it really wasn't me?

I was able to get him off the stage in 15 seconds. If it was you, youse would've stayed on stage 15 minutes milking the bit!

So what did you finally do with the lousy singer?

When I found out he was from Cuba, I told him I'd give him air fare back if he'd give up singing forever.

Well... did he go for it?

Not only did he agree, but he promised no one ■ his family would sing, so I gave him money for 15 fares home. I'm no dummy!

I'm Luny Esmoron Retardo. Over the years, I've gained the reputation of being a screwball, but nothing could be further from the truth! You'll have to excuse me now, I have to go lock myself in a steamer trunk...just as soon as I get my big toe unstuck from the kitchen sink!

I'm Luny's husband, Sicky Retardo! I thin' marryin' me was the second smartest theeng Luny ever done! The first smartest theeng she ever done was soakin' my socks in coffee so they would stay up longer! Would you like me to sing "Babalu" for you now?

We're the Nurtzes! I'm Fret Hooboy Nurtz and this is my wife, Ether! Please, no cracks about Ether being young enough to be my daughter! We know! Any-way, we're the Retardos' "smart" next door neighbors!

Fret, how could we be so smart and remain the Retardos' neighbors?!? Anyone with smarts would have moved the minute Luny came down and asked if we could help change her baby's diaper—and it wasn't even born yet!!

Hi, Honey! I'm so hungry I could eat a pony!

You mean eat a horse! And knowing the cut of meat Luny brought, you may get your wish!

I'm glad you're hungry! I made chili!

Fonny, I doan smell no chili cookin'!

The reason you don't smell no chili cookin' is because it's in the refrigerator chillin'!

Luny, chili is supposed to be served hot!

Then why do they call it "chili"? WAAAAA! I wasted a whole day making chili for you and you don't want it! WAAAAHHH!!!!

Honey, your day wasn't wasted! Now you got a raisin to do one of your cryin' bits!

Gee, that's right! And you got to do one of your silly word substitution bits, saying "raisin" for "reason"! The day is saved! Yea!

WRITER: LOU SILVERSTONE

There's some one at the door.

It's Fidel, the lousy singer I was talkin' about!

Hi, Sicky, I stop on my way to the airport. I need money for two more tickets. I get two more lousy singers to leave the country!

If all the lousy singers left the country, what would Luny do for a husband?

You know, he DOES look like Luny, in one of her cheap disguises!

Sicky, what do you think will become of that guy Fidel?

Who knows? He'll go back to Cuba, get a job...the usual. Heck, I don't care if he becomes the next President of the country, just so long as he never sings again!

POLITICS

This afternoon I was listening to a guy who really knows what's wrong with this country's economic policies and international relations! And what's more, he knows how to solve the problems!

Really? It's about time a real leader showed up to take the reins! He'll get my vote!

Oh, he's not running for office!
He's too busy driving his taxi!

APPRECIATION

Dad, I just came from the mall! I bought a lot of great clothes and
I charged them to your account!

You did what?! Do you realize how hard I have to work just to make ends meet? For the last six weeks
I've been putting in overtime so that this family can eat well and maintain our level of lifestyle!

So tell me, "Miss Million

A word of advice to you, Nick! I caught you nodding off at the conference again, and my guess is the "big man" noticed it too! Aren't you getting enough sleep at home?

I guess not! I've got a tennis game three mornings a week, I belong to two doubles leagues and one singles league at night, and I play all weekend! To catch up, I've been taking work home on my free nights!

That's some schedule! No wonder you're burnt out! You better slow down or you're gonna be unemployed, fella!

You're absolutely right! From now on, I'm gonna stop taking work home!

COMMUNICATION

I was out with David Dasch last night! He is one marvelous conversationalist! He kept me interested for over two hours!

I never realized that about him! What was he talking about?

LATE ONE AFTERNOON IN THE DUNGEON

A few months ago the United States Attorney General and his hand-picked committee released a two volume, 1,035 page monstrosity purporting to offer sound solutions to the problem of smut proliferation. Unfortunately, at the obscene price of $35.00, most Americans could not afford to pick up a copy of this "study" for themselves. It is with this in mind that we present excerpts from...

THE MESS COMMISSION REPORT ON PORNOGRAPHY

A MESSAGE FROM THE CHAIRMAN

My Fellow Concerned Citizens,

As sure as I have a double chin, I'm sure you agree with me that the biggest danger facing American Democracy is not ■ Soviet nuclear build-up, international terrorism or organized crime. It is PORNOGRAPHY!

Smut has infiltrated every aspect of our society. One need look no further than the depraved sex outfits worn by the counter girls at Burger King for evidence of this. Morally superior people have long known that the greatest threat to our freedom is allowing people to write and say whatever they want!

That's where my Commission on Pornography comes in. I assembled a group of objective people, all of whom think exactly the same way I do. Together, along with $500,000 of your tax money, we discovered you can find filth almost anywhere—if you look hard enough. I personally spent many long nights watching the dirtiest hardcore films I could get my hands on, sometimes two and three times, in order to determine exactly how obscene they are. I purchased hundreds of X-rated magazines, books and decks of playing cards, and even though the Commission's report is finished, I continue to do so. That's how dedicated I am to making sure you can't watch or read anything I don't want you to.

Yours in freedom,

Edwin Mess

MEET SOME OF THE COMMISSION MEMBERS

SMUT AND OUR CULTURE

The following graph illustrates the clear link between the increasing availability of obscene material and the corresponding decline in the quality of American life over the past 20 years. The small symbols below indicate events which, in the Commission's opinion, significantly contributed to either the proliferation of smut or the disintegration of our great culture.

THE PLAGUE OF PORNOGRAPHY IN OUR MEDIA

During its months of research, the Commission reviewed hundreds of books, films, television shows and magazines suspected of being pornographic. The following is a cross section of those reviewed, along with the Commission's evaluation.

Sears Catalogue: Filth, filth, filth! Page after page of men, women and children in their underwear! Hundreds of ads for kinky stuff like loveseats and beds! Worst of all, this book is given away free to anyone who wants it!

Rolling Stone: No need for us to open this one. Any magazine with Madonna on the cover probably has lewd pictures of her inside! Besides, Rolling Stone is about rock music, which we already know to be grossly obscene!

American Rifleman: The best of all the magazines we reviewed! There was not a mention of sex anywhere! We unquestionably recommend this fine publication to everyone. It reflects the kind of smut-free America we all hope and pray for.

Wheel of Fortune: For 30 minutes, depraved contestants call out letters—the very same letters used to spell the vilest, most profane words in the English language! Worst of all, this halfhour of sin features the provocative and sexually arousing costumes worn by Pat Sajak!

Family Ties: Although we did not actually watch this show, the word "ties" in the title is an obvious reference to the abhorrent practice of bondage and sado-masochistic rituals! That the show features young, innocent children makes it all the more lewd, repulsive and reprehensible.

Monday Night Football: Men huddled together on teams with names like the "Oilers" and the "Packers" are lunging and grabbing and piling on top of one another! Wearing skin-tight uniforms, they try to "score" so that they can dance together and pat each other on the rear! After this disgusting display, they all retire to the locker room where they shower together and who knows what else! Disgusting!

Tootsie: In this vile, corrupt "entertainment," a de-ranked actor poses as a transvestite in order to gain access to women's dressing rooms and to seduce young, unsuspecting girls. The actor revels as he applies makeup and dons pantyhose and a brassiere. Even so, this movie isn't half as reprehensible as another film glorifying cross-dressing degenerates that we saw called "Yentl."

HOW TO CLEAN UP: WHAT CITIZENS CAN DO

THE MESS COMMISSION'S RECOMMENDATIONS FOR IMPROVING OUR SOCIETY

1. Boycott any department store that leaves a nude mannequin in its window for more than two hours.
2. Write the MPAA and ask them to give all dirty movies "G" ratings since no one ever goes to see G-rated films anyway.
3. Refuse to be treated in hospitals that use patient gowns that open in the back.
4. Vote for only those candidates we like (Republicans).
5. Buy everything you need at 7-11 stores or from anyone else who bows to pressure exerted by special interest groups.
6. Rent X-rated video tapes, bring them home and record "Star Search" over them.
7. Carefully monitor the balloons at children's birthday parties.
8. If you see Bob Guccione, throw an egg at him.

IN CONCLUSION

After working diligently for months, it has become clear to this commission that pornography is a scourge that must be eliminated. It is our strong belief that the only way to defeat this epidemic of obscenity is to review everything published, filmed and photographed before the public has the chance to make up its own mind about it. In order to keep things fair, this review should be conducted by an independent and objective committee of unbiased and impartial citizens—namely US!!!

You've read poems that glorify trees and Paul Revere and stuff like that. Let's face it—they're out of date. We're in the 1980s, and what deserves glorifying are the items that assist us every day and enrich our lives. You know, things like the Walkman, the blender and the VCR. Which is why Mad now presents

ODES TO APPLIANCES, GADGETS AND OTHER MODERN CONVENIENCES

WRITER: FRANK JACOBS

O WALKMAN!

*O Walkman! My Walkman!
I groove the tapes you play;
Your 'phones stay wrapped around my head
From dawn till end of day.*

*O Walkman! My Walkman!
You fill my life with sound;
Because of you, I now block out
All other sounds around.*

*O Walkman! My Walkman!
I hear you, there's no doubt;
I only wish I could have heard
The truck that wiped me out.*

The VCR

*The VCR's a loyal pal,
A friend you truly care for,
Because it guarantees you'll see
The shows that you weren't there for;
Two thousand shows I've taped so far;
Each night I tape a new one;
Who knows, perhaps there'll come a day
I'll find the time to view one.*

THE MICROWAVE

*Blessings on thee, Microwave;
Countless minutes I now save;
Like a flash, you work with ease,
Roasting meats and melting cheese;
Turning out a cherry pie
In the twinkling of an eye;
Baking apples double-quick—
What's your secret? What's the trick?
Some great magic you possess;
What it is, I cannot guess;
Once my cooking spelled disaster;
Now it's just as bad—but faster.*

THE NAUTILUS

*The Nautilus keeps me in trim
Just like a workout at the gym;
For half an hour, twice a day,
I strain to melt the flab away;
I lift and pull and stretch and push
To flatten gut and tighten tush;
You'll find this well-designed machine
Will make your body trim and lean;
It helps, of course, the makers say,
To use it ev'ry waking day;
But best of all, I should explain,
You'll love it if you're into pain.*

BLENDER, BLENDER

*Blender, blender, on my shelf,
Mixing foods all by yourself,
Pulverizing chicken chunks
Into spreads and dips and dunks.*

*Blender, blender, wondrous toy,
Source of gastronomic joy;
Chopping, churning while you work,
Like some wacko gone berserk.*

*Blender, blender, bladed friend,
Slicing carrots end to end;
Thanks to how you mush and mince,
I create ■ perfect blintz.*

*Blender, blender, fast and slick,
Making sauces rich and thick;
Faithfully, you'll serve me well
Till my diet's shot to hell.*

phones

*I think that I shall never own
A tool more handy than the phone;
A phone with which I keep in touch
With inlaws, old-time pals and such;
A phone that also sometimes rings
With calls from schmucks and dingalings;
A phone that bill collectors use
For giving me unwelcome news;
A phone with calls that airheads make
Who've dialed my number by mistake;
A phone I pick up half asleep
To hear some heavy-breathing creep;
On second thought, I've come to fear
There's less to phones than meets the ear;
In fact, with one more nuisance call
I may not own a phone at all.*

Today, you can divide everyone under 35 in America into one of two categories: Yuppies and Aspiring Yuppies. All Yuppies care about is maintaining and improving their Yupster status. All Aspiring Yuppies care about is joining the ranks of these beralded achievers. Whether you're a Yuppie or a would-be Yuppie, we thought you'd like to know how you're doing. That's why we devised this simple test that will answer the toughest question you'll ever face:

HOW DO YOU RATE AS A YUPPIE?

ARTIST: PAUL COKER

WRITER: TOM KOCH

YUPPIE CAREER GOALS

AWARD YOURSELF A PERFECT SCORE OF TEN if you have dreamed since childhood of becoming a wine steward, a dealer in commodity futures or a great humanitarian who brings joyous news of tax shelters to the middle class.

DEDUCT TWO POINTS FROM THIS TOTAL if you'd settle for becoming a rich suburban dentist or a Senator from a thinly populated western state.

DEDUCT NINE POINTS for any hidden desire to be school teacher, a social worker or an honest cop.

YUPPIE FRIENDS

AWARD YOURSELF A FULL TEN POINTS if the only social contact whose name you bother ■ remember is the doorman who can get you into a popular disco.

DEDUCT THREE POINTS FROM THAT TOTAL if you spend Christmas with relatives instead of at Aspen making contacts among influential people.

DEDUCT FIVE POINTS if you don't know a single overseas airline pilot who can bring back new flavors of Swedish fibre bread before they're available here.

YUPPIE EATING HABITS

AWARD YOURSELF THE FULL TEN POINTS if you maintain that everything one eats should first be pulverized in a Cuisinart—including steak, grape nuts and peach cobbler a la mode.

DEDUCT FIVE POINTS if you actually use your microwave oven and metric kitchen scale, instead of eating out every night with other Yuppies who also have fully equipped kitchens at home.

DEDUCT EIGHT POINTS if you serve all the "in" foods, but buy domestic brands instead of imported so you'll have enough money left ■ pay your rent.

YUPPIE IDOLS

AWARD YOURSELF THE MAXIMUM TEN POINTS if your favorite celebrities are Bill Cosby, Lee Iacocca and Mary Lou Retton's agent. (Make it a TEN PLUS if you refer to them as "role models" instead of "favorite celebrities.")

DEDUCT TWO FROM THAT TOTAL if you still have admiration for such outdated people as Gary Hart, Alan Alda, Phyllis George and Abraham Lincoln.

DEDUCT SEVEN POINTS if your role models are any of the regulars from those Lite Beer commercials.

YUPPIE READING

AWARD YOURSELF A PERFECT TEN if the Wall Street Journal would fulfill your every need to keep abreast of the day's important happenings—if only it carried "Doonesbury."

DEDUCT TWO POINTS FROM THAT TOTAL if you also sneak an occasional look at People and Us, but only to see what other, featherbrained social climbers like yourself are doing.

DEDUCT SEVEN POINTS if you still suffer from claustrophobia when the latest "in" phobia is a fear of having poor people brush up against you in their inferior polyester clothing.

YUPPIE LOVE LIFE

AWARD YOURSELF THE FULL TEN POINTS if you refuse to date members of the opposite sex until you've inspected their apartments, thus following the sensible adage, "It's not who you are that counts; it's what you own."

DEDUCT SIX POINTS if you're already engaged, but still haven't selected a big name lawyer to handle your future divorce, in case the marriage goes kaput.

DEDUCT NINE POINTS if you've dated that girl next door since you were 14 and plan to marry her even though she's now a mere data processor with absolutely no management level ambitions.

YUPPIE PARENTHOOD

AWARD YOURSELF A MAXIMUM SCORE OF TEN if you've arranged for your kid to be born in a socially prominent hospital so he can get into the proper day nursery so he'll qualify for a snobbish private boarding school so he'll be accepted at Dartmouth or Stanford, even if he's a nitwit.

DEDUCT FIVE POINTS if you refer to raising kids as "raising kids" instead of "parenting."

DEDUCT NINE POINTS if you would lack the clout to keep your wayward children out of jail when all your Yuppie friends can get their kids released to undergo psychological counseling.

YUPPIE DISEASES

AWARD YOURSELF THE TEN POINT MAXIMUM if your only doctor is a psychiatrist who diagnoses every earache and ingrown toenail as an emotional problem from the stress of overwork.

DEDUCT ONE POINT FROM THAT TOTAL if you quit going to a psychiatrist—but only because he made you lie on a couch in his office that wasn't covered with real Corinthian leather.

DEDUCT EIGHT POINTS if you sometimes buy one of those check-out stand tabloids, even if you can prove that you only use it to line the bottom of your pedigreed myna's bird cage.

YUPPIE DRESSING

AWARD YOURSELF THE MAXIMUM SCORE OF TEN if you now live in a nudist camp because the wise decision to buy top quality running shoes has left you too poor to buy any other clothing.

DEDUCT THREE POINTS FROM THAT TOTAL if you've ever been seen wearing a belt buckle with your own initials on it, rather than those of Yves St. Laurent.

DEDUCT NINE POINTS if you think Brooks Brothers was the all-star third baseman who played for the Baltimore Orioles a few years back.

SCORING

Either add up your score manually, or award yourself an extra five points by having your home computer add it for you. However you do it, this is what your total means:

140-TO-160 POINTS Nice going! Your lifelong passion for overachievement has again put you at the top. You are such a dedicated Yuppie that you'll be running a major corporation before you're 40—if your colleagues let you live that long.

110-TO-140 POINTS Not bad, but there is still a spark of ordinary common sense within you somewhere. Work harder to get rid of it.

90-TO-110 POINTS Strictly so-so. Either you're not willing to live beyond your means, or you have some wimpish hesitation about riding roughshod over others. Whatever the problem, you'll never rise beyond the middle class unless you get off your duff and start playing for keeps.

70-TO-90 POINTS You're truly a sad case. Try having yourself committed to a Young Professionals' Club and see if they can do anything for you.

BELOW 70 POINTS Hopeless! In fact, no one ever scored as poorly on this test—except for Bishop Tutu, a couple of Peace Corps volunteers and a Hindu untouchable named Skippy.

HACK TO THE FUTURE DEPT.

The American television industry is very predictable. For example, you can absolutely rest assured that any show which becomes a hit will eventually try to cash-in on its success by dishing up a spin-off that stars some of the familiar characters from its original cast. Obviously, the purpose of this plan is to create a second hit without having to think up a whole new idea. Just as obvious, the usual result is to destroy one good show by turning it into two bad ones. Still, the Spin-Off Syndrome continues to dominate Hollywood. And, as some of today's shows become hits, we're sure TV producers are already working on these...

TV SPIN-OFFS YET TO COME

LIFE WITH MALLORY

The sub-normal sister of Alex Keaton breaks away from "Family Ties" this season to star in a show of her own. Network executives who already have screened early episodes call it "a laugh riot, as any sitcom would be that centers around an 18-year-old girl with the mind of a retarded spaniel."

Already completed half-hours deal humorously with Mallory's failure to pass Remedial Math, her failure to qualify for a driver's license and her failure to understand the mechanical principle behind replacing a burned-out light bulb.

Joining Mallory from "Family Ties" will be her former baby sister, Jennifer, who has now grown tall enough to play her 35-year-old aunt. Plans also call for brother Alex to drop in occasionally and display his skills at sneering and wearing a narrow necktie, the same talents that have made him the idol of female viewers.

NBC—Sunday, 4:45 P.M.

CLIFF AND NORMIE

A sanitarium for recovering alcoholics is the setting for this uproarious spin-off from the popular "Cheers."

As described by the producing brother team of Ray Charles, Prince Charles and Charles Schulz, "It's a natural development for Cliff and Norm to wind up in a drunk tank after three solid years of sitting on bar stools and lapping up the sauce. From there, a judge sends them to the loony bin to get their brains unpickled."

The new show's opening episode sets the tone for the series as Norm tries to hang himself after being ordered to stay on a diet of sprouts and celery juice until he loses 150 pounds. Cliff saves his friend, and then delivers a mirthful ten-minute monologue about plant life in Albania.

NBC—Wednesday, 8:30 P.M.

ARTIST: ANGELO TORRES

WRITER: TOM KOCH

RUDY

The youngest performer on "The Bill Cosby Show" departs this year to star in a weekly drama about love, jealousy and greed in a New York kindergarten.

NBC President Grand Thinker stated, "We felt that a real talent was going to waste by sticking Rudy in a sitcom, where she had nothing to do but spout one-liners. That's why we've signed Henny Youngman to play Cosby's youngest child this year, while Rudy moves into a dramatic role where her star quality can shine."

The show's first episode tackles the improbability of a six-year-old leading a glamorous life in her own Manhattan apartment. The issue is resolved when Rudy wins a bundle in the state lottery, and uses the money to hire Joan Collins and Stacey Keach as live-in foster parents.

NBC—Saturday, 8 P.M.

CAGNEY AND HARVEY, JR.

Capitalizing on her failure to form a healthy relationship with a man in five years of "Cagney & Lacey," Sharon Gless brings an air of believability to this spin-off, in which she tries her luck with her former partner's extremely weird 15-year-old son.

Enthused one network executive, "This may usher in a whole new era of sicko-domestic drama. After all, Harvey, Junior, is not your typical teenager with nothing on his mind but sex. He's a moody kid who worries about serious matters like misplacing his socks and having his chocolate milk turn sour. With those problems, he often forgets that Cagney is waiting for him in the bedroom—but, then, she's 25 years older than he is."

Cagney will continue to play the role of a police sergeant, but will be on suspension from the department for psychological evaluation through the whole first season.

CBS—Sunday, 10 P.M.

THE VANNA WHITE SHOW

"Wheel of Fortune" loses its decorative female star as the multi-talented Ms. White departs to host her own exciting half-hour. The move leaves Pat Sajak alone to handle such "Wheel of Fortune" chores as flipping over letters picked by the contestants. He admittedly has no previous experience with the alphabet.

"It's a gamble," confessed a production company spokesman. "But we knew that continuing to co-star Vanna with Pat was a matter of having too much talent on one show. Now, Vanna has her own half-hour, where her smiling and waving will get the center stage attention they deserve."

Since Ms. White has risen to stardom by remaining silent, she will merely gesture toward merchandise that has been won by contestants. The rest of the new show's format remains to be worked out, but Ms. White will definitely wear a sequined gown while it all happens.

SYNDICATED—Tuesday, 6:30 P.M.

THE NBC JOKE BREAK

Ultra-brief programming takes a new twist as NBC's popular "60-Second News Break" spawns this Tuesday night spin-off at 8:58:30 Eastern Time (7:58:30 Central and Mountain). In the premiere episode, Rodney Dangerfield delivers a quick one-liner, and then returns after the commercial to toss a custard pie at Soupy Sales.

Said Emmanuel Lewis, who has been signed to mumble a quip later this season, "NBC felt that its Tuesday ratings were low because the schedule didn't include much comedy. So they've planted this hilarious minute between two heavy dramas to grab the featherhead audience."

The network denies that it has neglected public service by replacing a minute of news with comedy. According to one official, "We'll still report disasters if they occur on Tuesday. However, we'll keep George Carlin on hand to describe them in a humorous way."

NBC—Tuesday, 8:58:30 P.M.

KATE AND NOBODY

The horror of being a divorced woman in New York is emphasized more strongly this season when Kate is forced to live alone after her long-time roommate, Allie, evicts her on charges of being unbearably cute and perky.

The spin-off was created after network moguls agreed that the tragic lives of Kate and Allie didn't seem tragic enough, since they were always together offering mutual support. Now, each will have her own show and portray urban divorced women as they really are: lonely, defenseless and half-crazed.

In keeping with its comedic premise, the premiere episode finds Kate O.D.ing on chocolate eclairs after her blind date brings her home at 7:30 so he can spend an interesting hour at the library before it closes.

CBS—Wednesday, 5:45 P.M.

HIGHWAY TO OAKLAND

After two years of portraying an angel's sidekick on "Highway to Heaven," Mark (Victor French) will star in his own show this season. The format still has him roaming the country to do good deeds, but now without help from the Almighty.

"We're basically sticking with our original idea because it's too hard to think of another one," revealed Producer Alfred M. (Little Alf) Landon, Jr. "However, there will be one big change. In real life, most people hate do-gooders. On "Highway to Heaven" divine intervention was the only thing that saved Mark from getting his lights punched out every week. Now when he pries into other people's business, he'll take the consequences."

In the first three episodes Mark's kindness gets him tarred and feathered by homeless senior citizens, bitten by a starving puppy and kicked in the groin by a lost three-year-old.
